

Percy Bysshe Shelley (1792-1822)

Ozymandias.

I MET a Traveller from an antique land,
Who said, "Two vast and trunkless legs of stone
Stand in the desert. Near them, on the sand,
Half sunk, a shattered visage lies, whose frown,
And wrinkled lip, and sneer of cold command,
Tell that its sculptor well those passions read,
Which yet survive, stamped on these lifeless things,
The hand that mocked them and the heart that fed:
And on the pedestal these words appear:
"My name is OZYMANDIAS, King of Kings."
Look on my works ye Mighty, and despair!
Nothing beside remains. Round the decay
Of that Colossal Wreck, boundless and bare,
The lone and level sands stretch far away.

Lorna Clayton was reminded of the poem Ozymandias when she wrote her piece Grand Designs which follows below.

Grand Designs seldom come to fruition.
Jamie Packer, what is happening with you and your much vaunted rampant ambition
For
high flyers at Barangaroo?
